Making Spaces Work with Bespoke Furniture and Design

Mark Taylor Design is a British manufacturer of superlative bespoke furniture, cabinetry and specialist joinery, working in Central London and the Home Counties. Their passion is to make spaces work – to create extraordinary spaces which are as personally resonant and relevant to their users as possible.

The central tenets of all Mark Taylor Design's work are passionate craftsmanship founded on over 25 years of specialist experience, and truly bespoke personal service. They work to the belief that (almost) anything is possible for their eminent private, professional and commercial clients.

Creating an incredible space as an expression of a vision is one thing – ensuring that it fits in with people's lives and practical needs is entirely another.

Mark Taylor Design balances functional planning with beautiful, inspirational design. Our creative approach is imaginative and pragmatic. We work within budget but always aim to include a design element that's makes every space feel interesting and personal to you. We aim for creative but collaborative bravery in every client relationship we undertake – whatever the price tag – designing unique rooms using the most exciting materials.

Established over 25 years in the design industry, we specialise in kitchens, bathrooms, studies, bedrooms, bars, architectural joinery and exclusive furniture pieces. Our knowledge of materials, colour, space planning, lighting, sustainability and trends provide a wealth of choice and inspiration to our clients.

Our core team of design engineers works with a wide range of design affiliates including specialist craftsmen, interior designers, garden designers, plumbers, fitters, joiners and painters to make all transformations, domestic or business, a seamless, stress free and ultimately truly collaborative experience.
